On Feb. 18, 1999, the date of this examination, Mr. S [REDACTED] seemed to be preoccupied with outside issues. He appeared to be nervous and time conscious (monitored his wristwatch repeatedly). When I questioned him about his behavior, after I had conducted the examination, he explained that he had an important meeting with a realtor, and that his wife was depending on him to pick her up after work. I suggested to the investigators handling the case, that Mr. S [REDACTED] be re-tested in the near future because of the outside issues he was dealing with. The polygraph examination given to Mr. S [REDACTED] on this date resulted in the following Final Call: Significant responses that would normally indicate deception (Deception Indicated).
